FOREWORD

During our four-year association with Salem State, we, the class of 1965, have witnessed many physical and cultural changes within the college. We have been an integral part of these, and the changes wrought within ourselves have been of equal magnitude. Now that our college days have terminated, only memories remain.

With this fact in mind, we, the Staff of the 1965 CLIPPER, have attempted to assemble within the bounds of this book a picturesque memento of our brief life at Salem. We sincerely hope that this chronological account will serve as a lasting and sentimental reminder of what must surely be considered the prologue to our most productive years.

MESSAGE TO THE SENIORS

As I write a message to the Class of 1965, I find a definite quality in the tenure of your four years at Salem State College. Your days at Salem encompassed the Kennedy years in our national history, years which placed great emphasis on youth and the heroic way—youth meets its challenges. I would like to include in my message to you a quotation from President Kennedy describing the call to all young Americans—especially those who have had the great opportunity of a College education. "I tell you the new frontier is here—whether we seek it or not. Beyond that frontier are uncharted areas of science and space, unsolved problems of peace and war; unconquered pockets of ignorance and prejudice, and unanswered questions of poverty and surplus. I believe the times demand invention, innovation, imagination and decision. I am asking you to be new pioneers on that new frontier. My call is to the young in heart, regardless of age; to the stout in spirit—regardless of party. To all who respond to the mutual call—be strong and of good courage; be not afraid, neither be thou dismayed."

I ask you to think well about the words of the late President. I ask you: What gives man dignity instead of shame in his struggle with adversity? Where does he get his courage and strength to try again after failure? Whence comes the desire to help one's fellow man instead of striding over him, to put service to others above self? The moral and spiritual values which are acquired during a man's education provide the source for this betterment of mankind.

May you move forward in your chosen profession with courage, faith, and gratitude; courage and faith in yourselves, gratitude for all who have helped you in your desire to receive an education.

In behalf of the college and staff, may I wish for you health, success, and happiness in the days to come.

Sincerely yours,

Frederick A. Meier

The 1964-1965 Salem State hockey team, coached by Boston University's 1959 All-American Goalie, Barry Urbanski, skated to victory over many highly-rated opponents before closing their season on February 28. Among the most impressive of these conquests were those over Rutgers University, University of Vermont, and Boston State College.

High scorer for the season was Skip Arvilla, who tallied 42 goals.
